

Strictly Sport...

By NORMAN CARDON

Everybody's Doing It... It's here again. It happens every year about this time. The football season comes and goes, and after it has gone people who somehow know each more than the other start picking their dream team. As a matter of fact it is quite simple. First you make a list of the various positions on a football team. Then you write down as many names as you can think of, each on a separate slip of paper. It is best that these names be of people who have played football at some time or other, although seemingly this isn't strictly necessary. Then you close your eyes, pick a name, and place it beside the position. You now have your all-star team.

Some Selections...

Several all-star teams appear on the inside page. There will be no doubt be hearty guffaws and a whole lot of "aw he's nuts"-es. Up around London way these are some people who think that the entire Mustang squad intact would make a good all-star team. And there is also the wag, not from London, who put down the word Szuminski twelve times as his selection. But seriously the best idea is this: take the McGill line, add Gus Edwards of Queen's and Claude Moore of Western for ends, stick Nick Paitoukhos of Queen's at snap, and Alf Hurdley of Western or Charlie Prince of Varsity at quarter. Then add a dash of Joe Krol, Harry Szuminski, and McGill's Bob Keizer on the backfield. Net result: a TEAM.

All-Star Stuff, Cont'd...

While everybody is in the mood, there are some other all-stars that might be selected. An all-star coaching system, for one. Take a dash of Doug Kerr, add Bill Storer for the aerial attack and Fred Wigle on the line. That's about the best there is, except that it leaves out people like Warren Stevens, Frank Tyndall, Johnny Metras and Harry Baistone. Then if we really get enthusiastic there are always things like all-star water boys and all-star coed cheer leaders....

Of Strategy and Strategy...

McGill's Harriers won the Intercollegiate title at Kingston last week without too much difficulty. But there is a story behind it. During the race at Middlebury, Lloyd Cooke, ace McGill runner, developed what he thought was a stitch. But stitches disappear, and this one didn't. Cooke won that race, and he didn't find out until afterwards that it was his appendix. The following week Cooke competed at Kingston. About half way through the race when the boys were still punched together, Cooke felt the attack recurring. So he decided to pile up a lead and walk to the finish line if necessary. He dashed out by himself, and the other Redmen realizing what was happening decided to play a part. So they turned to the others about them and said, "There goes Cooke out to break the record." The opposing runners, who knew Cooke's reputation, and who were aware of the fact that he had broken the record the previous year, swallowed this line. They didn't try to chase him. So Cooke set a nice (Continued on Page Four)

THREE MILLION IS OBJECTIVE OF RED CROSS

Money to Be Used for Canadian Soldiers' Aid

HOSPITAL TO BE BUILT

Nine Per Cent. of National Objective Reserved for Unforeseen Events

On Tuesday the Canadian Red Cross began its nationwide drive with the goal of $3,000,000. The motto of the drive is "Alleviation of Human Suffering." Quebec is to contribute $800,000 and Montreal, to contribute $400,000. Boxes are in various buildings of the university to receive students' contributions. The society has already promised $400,000, of which $250,000 is for a hospital to be built in England, and the rest is for the countless supplies which will be needed in the next eight months. The money will be used as far as possible to aid Canadian soldiers, and the Government relies on the Red Cross as in no other time. About nine per cent. of the national objective will be kept in reserve to cover any emergencies which may come up during the war. During the last war Canada gave $35,000,000 through the Red Cross. Among the many things done by the Society was the sending of ambulances, and the building and equipping of hospitals. One of their most important and appreciated institutions was an Information Bureau where the soldiers were identified and relations informed of their whereabouts. This Bureau also took care of imprisoned men. (Continued on Page Four)

DR. FILES TO SPEAK BEFORE SOCIOLOGISTS

Various Aspects of Literature and Their Significance to Be Discussed

Dr. Files, associate professor of the Department of English, will speak at the first meeting of the Sociological Society, to be held on Tuesday, November 21st, at 8:15 P.M. The place of meeting has not yet been decided upon, but it will likely be held either in the R.V.C. common-room, or in the Union Grill Room. Dr. Files' discussion will deal with the various social aspects of literature, along with their significance, showing how the author and the reader are both conditioned by their environment. The sociological novel will also figure in the talk. An innovation this year will be the question and answer period which will follow the talk. This will be patterned along the lines of "Information Please." Students are asked to hand in questions concerning sociological problems which are capable of being answered briefly, along with their answers, to any member of the Executive, or to Bill Gentleman. Questions submitted must have short answers or they will not be accepted.

SOPHS SPONSOR HOP AT UNION TOMORROW

Sweaters and skirts, greynell jackets, low-heeled shoes, are all in order at the informal hop sponsored by the Sophomore Class.

The hop is scheduled for Saturday evening and Archie Etienne's orchestra will provide the music. Tickets are 75 cents a couple and may be obtained from class officers or Bill Gentleman or at the Union Tuck Shop.

It is hoped by the executive of the Sophomore Class that these dances will prove equally popular at McGill. Throughout the year a series of similar events will take place, and students of all faculties will have an opportunity to attend these informal hops and dance to a good orchestra. The price of tickets is being kept as low as possible so that a great number can attend.

The hop will finish at one o'clock and refreshments may be obtained from the Union Grillroom.

STATE HEALTH IS DISCUSSED

Dr. Pedley Compares British and Swedish Insurance Schemes

Advances Probability of Like System in Canada to Medicos

Dr. Frank G. Pedley, University Medical Officer, speaking before a group of students in the third of a series of lectures on medical problems, last night outlined and compared the respective health insurance schemes of England and Sweden.

Dr. Pedley first discussed the compulsory insurance scheme which has been in effect in England for the past 27 years and in which 45 per cent. of the population are insured. (Continued on Page Four)

SPANISH CUSTOMS TREATED BY PROF.

Prof. Guillen Speaks of Homeland at Spanish Club Meeting

Life in Spain is interpreted by sun and music, said Dr. Guillen last night, speaking informally at the first open meeting of the Club Hispanico de McGill. Dr. Guillen, who was named Honorary President of the club, spoke on "The Man in the Street in Spain."

The Spanish street is an animated place, described Dr. Guillen, for the citizens of this land spend most of their time on the broad avenues, seeing and talking.

The Spaniard hates to stay at home, and has large windows overlooking the street from which he can see what's going on. Most of the business is transacted at sidewalk cafes, said the professor, who left his native land last spring. He was at Middlebury College, Vermont a few months before coming to McGill.

I.V.C.F. to Sponsor Sing-Song on Sunday

The first of a series of Sunday evening sing-songs will be held in the Union Reading Room this Sunday from 9 to 10 p.m. under the sponsorship of the McGill Christian Fellowship. A number of Sankey Hymn Books have been made available to the Fellowship, and it was announced last night that the services of a pianist have been secured.

It was announced by the executive of the Fellowship that these informal sing-songs have been organized to fill a need that many students have expressed for something to do on Sunday evenings. This need, it was stated, is especially noted in the residences such as R.V.C. and Douglas Hall, and the executive, while welcoming all students, are extending a special welcome to students from these residences.

FREEDOM OF SPEECH?

An Editorial

In a speech to the Montreal Rotary Club last Tuesday, on "Poland", Professor Adair, a member of the Department of History, condemned the guarantee given to Poland by the British Prime Minister last summer as a "desperate attempt on his part to save his face and to save the prestige of his foreign policy and that of the Conservative party." He went on to say that various statesmen of Britain had warned Mr. Chamberlain that Poland's integrity could be assured only if he overcame his "dislike of an allegiance with Russia. This warning Mr. Chamberlain was stupid enough to ignore, and the inevitable happened: Russia made her own arrangements with Germany and Poland fell."

Both The Gazette and the Star decided to take exception to Professor Adair's remarks, and retaliated in no gentlemanly fashion. "It is difficult to believe," reads The Gazette editorial, "that an educated mind could be 'stupid enough' to give utterance to such a misleading statement in the light of the truth regarding the events leading to and surrounding the unholy alliance of Hitler and Stalin." The Star's remarks were none the less complimentary.

Yesterday, the Law Undergraduate Society held a special meeting to draft a letter to be sent to the editors of The Gazette, the Star, and the McGill Daily. "Vicious" is the only word that seems suitable to describe the editorials in Wednesday's Star and Gazette," it reads, and proceeds to point out that, in our efforts to win the present war and champion democracy, we find it necessary to suspend our everyday right of freedom, we may as well end the war at once.

Last night, The Gazette refused to publish the letter of the Law undergrads. This action savours strongly of a certain practice in certain European countries: that of printing all the arguments on one side and not giving the reading public a chance to hear what the other party has to say in reply. The Gazette had no hesitation in criticizing the remarks of Professor Adair; why should it hesitate to give the Law undergrads the right to criticize its editorial column?

So far, the Law undergrads have not submitted their letter to the Star; let us hope that that paper shows better sense and fair-play in dealing with it.

We take pleasure in printing the letter below:

To the Editor of the McGill Daily:

Sir:— We are sure many people must be deeply concerned about the attitude towards Professor Adair's speech to the Montreal Rotary Club, taken in their editorial columns on Wednesday by two of our most important Montreal papers. The question they have raised is no less than that of continued existence of individual liberty—the freedom which we are supposed to have entered this war to defend.

"Vicious" is the only word that seems suitable to describe the editorials in Wednesday's "Star" and "Gazette" on this matter. They illustrate a tendency which becomes daily more noticeable, a tendency that seems about to destroy the very foundation of democracy in this country. Surely a man whose knowledge of the historical method must be regarded as adequate, should be allowed to draw his own conclusions from contemporary events. Everyone knows that Poland was in no sense a democracy; that her treatment of (Continued on Page Four)

NEWMAN CLUB GIVES PRE-MEDICAL SOCIETY "DUPLICATE BRIDGE" HOLDS TEA FOR STAFF

Tonight at 8:15, the Newman Club will hold a "duplicate bridge" in the Reading Room of the Union. "All prospective members as well as old timers are cordially invited to attend," stated the club's president, Ed. Lemieux. "Rubb Merrifield, President of the Students' Council will be one of our guests," he added. "No member need stay at home due to a lack of knowledge of duplicate bridge, as the executive will explain its procedure in advance." The admission will be 25 cents.

On Sunday, following Mass and breakfast at 10:00 a.m. in the Congress Hall, 454 Dorchester Street West, Father Bryan, Professor of Philosophy at Loyola College, will address the Club at the regular meeting of the Club on Catholic Philosophy.

Distinguished Young Violinist To Be Guest at Symphony Concert

By F. C.

The Montreal Orchestra has, for its second concert this coming Sunday, Orre Pernel, as guest violinist.

Throughout the course of her distinguished career, Miss Pernel has received considerable praise from various music critics. Of her tone, the New York Times said—"It was voluminous, vibrant, and alive." The Morning Post, of London, reported that in a rendition of Mozart's D major Violin Concerto, "her playing showed a sensitive instinct for the right variation of accent necessary to give fluency and point to the delicate phrasing. It was, in every way, a performance of a cultured musician and an excellent player." Since her concert with Dr. Serge Koussevitzky, in Boston, 1937, and the brilliant ovation she won, the young English violinist has scored a series of triumphs. If Sunday's concert in which Miss Pernel will play "Elgar's Violin Concerto," will be of the same quality as her previous concerts, Montreal music lovers may look forward to a brilliant afternoon. Included in the program will be Haydn's Symphony, Wagner's "Sigfried Idyll," and Sibelius' much loved "Finlandia." If the concert of two weeks ago may be used as a criterion, this week's concert will be a very fine musical event.

R.V.C. - ARTS '41 MEET FOR LUNCHEON TODAY

A joint luncheon of R.V.C. and Arts '41 will be held today at one o'clock in the Union Grill Room. Due to the fact that no tickets are being sold, the students are asked by the executives to purchase their luncheons in the Cafeteria at regular prices, and to carry them into the Grill Room which has been reserved for the occasion.

This will be the first of a series of informal luncheons whose purpose is to give the class members a chance to meet one another, and to discuss the program for the year.

Frances Cox, the President of R.V.C. '41 will be in the chair. There will be a discussion of plans for tea dances and a hop, also the question of the purchase of class pins. Jane Whittemore will read a report from the Junior Prom committee.

ARTS DEBATING CONTEST TODAY

Adjudicator of Series Is Mr. Eugene Forsey

Resolution: That Capital Punishment Should Be Abolished

The Arts Debating Society is holding the fourth debate in a current series today in Room 12 of the Arts building at 4 p.m. The subject of the debate is "Resolved that Capital Punishment Should Be Abolished." Those who will uphold the affirmative side are Max Popovitch and Jack Riddle. Opposing them in the resolution will be Lawrence Goddard and Bram Baittle.

A. L. Griffith, who is in charge of these debates will act as chairman. Mr. Eugene Forsey, of the Department of Economics and Political Science, is to be the adjudicator. He has already judged the three previous debates, in order to simplify the selection of the best team from each class. When these preliminaries have been completed, interclass debates will be held in order to determine the winners of the cup, and later there will be inter-faculty debates.

In the three preceding debates the winners have been those who have upheld the affirmative side. In the first F. Carey and A. L. Griffith were able to prove their arguments in the resolution that "Canada is Justified in Entering into the Present War." "Resolved that it is in the Best Interests of the University to Have the Senate Control Student Athletics" was debated by G. Stewart and R. Kingsland.

ECONOMISTS SCAN FRENCH WAR VIEW

Laurendeau, Thomas Read Papers Before Political Economy Club

"The Attitude of French Canadians Toward Canada's Participation in the European War" will be topic of the meeting of the Political Economy Club to be held in the Union Grill Room next Wednesday evening. Papers on the subject will be presented by Andre Laurendeau and Gordon Thomas. It was emphasized by the executive of the club last night that presentation of these papers will not take more than fifteen to twenty minutes apiece, so that much of the meeting will be left open for discussion.

Andre Laurendeau is the Editor of "L'Action Nationale" and has had many contacts with French Canadian youth organizations. Gordon Thomas is a fourth year honour student in Economics and Sociology at McGill.

The attendance at the last meeting was the largest since the organization of the club some twenty-five years ago, and the executive is hoping that this record will be equalled at this meeting. Refreshments including beer will be served at the close of the meeting.

The next meeting of the Club is December 12—"Canada, the Empire, and the Pan-American Union." Speakers: K. S. Miller and Dick Graydon.

Regular Osler Meeting Held Last Night

Steeves, Johnson and Chesney Read Papers on Famous Doctors

At the regular meeting of the Osler Society, held last night in the Vice-Regal Suite of the Ritz-Carlton Hotel, two papers were given, the first by Lee Steeves, and the second by Arnold Johnson and Parker Chesney.

Steeves' subject was "F. J. Shepard, Surgeon." Dr. Shepard graduated in Medicine from McGill in 1873 and served for many years on the Medical Faculty. Recalled by Sir William Osler from post-graduate studies in Europe, he took a position in the Department of Anatomy, where he assumed full professorship and was instrumental in bringing Anatomy to the fore at McGill. Dr. Shepard was on the Surgical Staff of the Montreal General and Royal Victoria Hospitals, lectured in Dermatology, and acted on two different occasions as Dean of the Faculty of Medicine. Steeves also spoke of the surgeon's personality and of the attention and respect which he commanded both (Continued on Page Four)

CLUB WILL DISCUSS FOREIGN RELATIONS

Mr. J. Gordon Nelles, M.Com., a McGill graduate and student of foreign affairs, will be the speaker at the meeting of the International Relations Club at 5:00 p.m. today in the Union Grill Room. Mr. Nelles has stated he intends only to give a short talk on the subject: "The War and Canada's Foreign and Imperial Relations," and then the meeting will be thrown open for discussion.

After graduating from McGill Mr. Nelles studied at Oxford and was for some time a financial editor in Montreal and a press correspondent at European conferences and at Geneva. Recently he made a study of the developments of the relations of the British Commonwealth.

The possibility will be considered of undertaking as a project the study of Canada's external relations, particularly in war time, using the study outline prepared by the Canadian Student Assembly for its Christmas Conference.

CHANGES TAKE PLACE IN CAST OF NEW PLAY

David Ashdown and Ambrose Saunders Take Parts

PRODUCTION ADVANCING

'Russet Mantle' to Be Presented in Moyse Hall December 7-8-9

The Executive of the Players' Club announced last night that, due to the resignation of Denis Gilson and Leslie Johnson, the two leading male parts of their forthcoming production, "Russet Mantle" will be filled by David Ashdown and Ambrose Saunders, both veterans of former Players' Club presentations. Ashdown replaces Gilson in the part of John Galt, a wandering poet with a flair for romance, which gets him into trouble with the uncle and aunt of Kay, the leading lady, portrayed by Cynthia Roblin. Ambrose Saunders takes the part of her somewhat prudish uncle, Horace Kincaid. He is chiefly remembered for his portrayal of the "amusing-while-drunk" naval officer in "French Without Tears." David Ashdown gained reputation for himself among the ranks of Montreal's amateur actors by his leading parts in "French Without Tears" and "Richard of Bordeaux."

Scene Laid in New Mexico The entire action of the play takes place at the Kincaid ranch in New Mexico, where Horace Kincaid has retired to raise chickens after a business career in Wall Street. Bunty Thom takes the part of Horace's wife, who, with equal prudence, is shamed by the ideas and actions of her modern niece. Kay's broadminded mother, Effie, will be played by Barbara Johnson, while Bill Tyndale will be Scott, the amorous cowboy. Among the supporting cast are: Chester Le-maitre, Betty Howe, Malcolm Byers and Penna Selye.

DISCUSS NEWS AS FACT AND FICTION

'Let's Talk It Over' Group Surveys Newspaper Presentation of News

A comparative survey of The New York Times, The Montreal Gazette, and other newspapers will be conducted at a "Let's Talk It Over," which will be held on Sunday, November 19th.

Mr. Ivor Williams, a graduate student of McGill, will be the guest speaker of the evening. He will discuss the current problem of how to read the news so as to pick out the facts from the speculation. The aim is to guard against being influenced by a selected presentation of news stories. The survey will be conducted without any attempt to form conclusions. The audience will be made acquainted with the facts, and it will be for them to make their own decision on the matter.

Everyone interested is invited to attend this meeting. Discussion and refreshments will follow the speaker's address.

Montreal, Friday, November 17, 1939
Vol. XXIX—No. 34

Self-Appointed Censors

On Tuesday, Professor E. R. Adair, of the Department of History addressed the Montreal Rotary Club on "Poland." Among his many remarks, he criticized the Chamberlain regime as being responsible ultimately for the downfall of Poland. "Stupid" was the adjective he applied to the British Prime Minister with reference to his dislike of making an alliance with Russia.

On Wednesday, both the Montreal Rotary Club and the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation decided to censor all manuscripts of speeches to be made before the Rotary Club at future meetings.

There are many who are saying that Professor Adair's remarks on Tuesday were inexpedient and entirely out of place at the present moment. This is way their argument runs:

"The time for discussion of Chamberlain's policy in respect to his treatment of Poland was last summer, or last winter, when Chamberlain and his Government were forming their policy. It may well be that Professor Adair's remarks on Poland are true, but the time for him to have made his speeches on this subject has long past.

"Today we are at war. Obviously we want to win this war. If people, such as McGill professors, talk in such a way as Professor Adair spoke on Tuesday, they are certainly not going to help matters a great deal. What they are accomplishing is detrimental to our present policy of doing everything possible to win the war. In short, Professor Adair stirred up unnecessary comment on something that has already been decided, and that has been irrevocably decided."

However, at no point in his speech did he contravene the official censorship regulations of the Dominion Government; this is quite evident, for the official censors have taken no action against either the speaker or the club.

He did not make "any adverse or unfavorable statement, report or opinion likely to prejudice the defence of Canada or the efficient prosecution of the war"; he did not make "any report or statement likely to cause disaffection to His Majesty or to prejudice His Majesty's relations with foreign powers"; he did not make "any report or statement likely to prejudice the recruiting, training, discipline, or administration of the forces"; he did not reveal any military secrets, or transgress in any other way the official censorship regulations; the censors, therefore, took no action.

Why, then it is necessary for both the CBC and the service club in question to make preparations to censor material that is not censorable?

Cramming

Although the reading room of the Redpath Library is being used by a greater number of students now than at the same time last year, there is no comparison with the use it will see just before the mid-term and May examinations.

There are some serious disadvantages to a lack of study early in the year which will necessitate last-minute work at the end, and freshmen especially, because of their newness in the game, would do well to heed a timely warning. The fact that there is a decided increase of readers at the library near the year's end is sufficient to show that cramming is prevalent here, and if we are to go by the psychologists' dicta, this type of study not only leaves the student without a lasting knowledge of the facts, but does not give him time to coordinate and therefore really to understand his subject properly. And besides, it undermines the health.

It has been proved that it is by work that we receive a love of the work, and it has been noticed by many in past years that in their cramming they suddenly became interested in a subject which they had previously loathed, too late then, however, to do anything about it. Had they seen the interesting side the course earlier, they not only would have enjoyed the lectures during the year, but because of their interest would have written a more creditable examination paper.

Besides the benefits afforded in a balanced program of study, there are a number of obligations which could be fulfilled only with such a system. The student owes it to himself, his parents, his university, and, especially during the present world situation, to his country. He owes it to himself to justify his status as a student and his spending his time at such, rather than earning money. He owes it to his parents, if they send him to college, to justify the expense entailed and this cannot be done if he graduates without a lasting knowledge of a large part of what he has learned. Training, on the other hand, afforded by the university in community life is every useful, but it is not the full function of the institution.

He owes it to his alma mater to go into the world with as broad a training as she has given him, for it is upon him that her reputation will depend. If the major part of his studying is done in the form of cramming, then, that reputation cannot rely on him for its fame.

MUSIC

Les Concerts Symphoniques.

On Tuesday evening, the second of the fortnightly series by the orchestra of "Les Concerts Symphoniques" was held at Plateau Hall. A large and responsive audience warmly greeted Mr. Pelletier and the soloist, Roland Gundry, a young French violinist.

Mr. Gundry gave a convincing performance of (Bruck's) G Minor Violin Concerto. This work, a favourite with soloists ever since it was played by Joachim in 1866, is somewhat irregular in material. Containing a rather perfunctory first movement, it was followed by a most expressive "Adagio" and ends with a brilliant and efficacious "Allegro energico". Playing with good intonation and rich tone Mr. Gundry promises well for the future, although one would disparage the energetic effusions which are part of his manner of performance.

The main work on the program was Tchaikovsky's Sixth Symphony in B Minor, which he himself labelled "Pathétique". Written shortly before his death, the symphony contains some of the most harrowing and morbid passages ever written in music. "Much," says Mr. Edwin Evans, "has been made of his pessimism, but it is at least open to doubt whether this was personal or racial. In every Slav there lies hidden a fatalist, and, combined with a certain fluidity of emotion, running rapidly over the whole gamut of human joy and sorrow, this fatalism engenders in every true Russian moments of gloom and depression such as we Westerners can little appreciate." In any case this symphony is a masterpiece, from the bitter-sweet memories suggestive in the opening movement to the concluding bars of intense sorrow and despair which end in the slightest hush of pianissimo that is death itself. This work stands out in bold relief among symphonies which have tried to express tragic personal feeling. Mr. Pelletier and the men of the orchestra are to be commended on the fine work they achieved in this symphony. Care was shown to the slightest detail of phrasing and nuance, as well as the broad outlines of expression.

Besides the Beethoven overture to "Prometheus" which opened the concert and two Chorales by Bach, Mr. Pelletier introduced a colourful and highly diverting composition to the orchestra's repertoire; "Islemy" by Balakirev was an original work for the piano and proved extremely difficult for the instrument, but in its orchestral form as arranged by the contemporary Italian, Alfredo Casella, it displayed true originality.

RADIO FLASHES

Modern Immortal Composers...

The Columbia program, "So You Think You Know Music", in conjunction with the magazine Radio Guide, recently conducted a poll of listeners to determine which modern composers, in the opinion of the listening public, would still be remembered and performed in 2039. From all the replies received the eleven composers with the most votes were selected and listed in order of the public's preference. Others named were also mentioned in the results which were recently announced.

Jean Sibelius, the Finnish master, whose works are already recognized as classics, was at the top of the list. He received two and one-half times as many votes as the second choice, Richard Strauss. The others, in order, were: Serge Rachmaninoff, Stravinsky, Paderewski, Deems Taylor, Shostakovich, Prokofiev, Kreisler, and Jaromir Weinberger and Jerome Kern, the last two with the same number of votes. Other Americans receiving votes included Charles Wakefield Cadman, Roy Harris, and John Alden Carpenter.

One of the voters listed Bach, Beethoven, and Brahms, eliciting this comment from the conductor of the poll: "Perhaps he thought that some living composers are already dead and some dead ones very much alive."

Violinist on Philharmonic...

Sunday's broadcast of the New York Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra features a French violinist, Zino Francescatti, who is a direct musical descendant of Paganini. Francescatti's sole teacher was his father, who in turn studied under the Italian violinist Saverio, the only individual who received personal instruction from Paganini.

Francescatti will play the Concerto for Violin and Orchestra, in D major, by Paganini. The orchestra will perform Brahms' Symphony, No. 2, in D major and the Suite in E major for Strings, by Arthur Foote. John Barbirolli will conduct, and Deems Taylor will give the intermission commentary.

Air Drama...

The coming week two of the outstanding radio theatres will present radio versions of famous books, whose stories were used in popular screen hits. Sunday evening at 8, Orson Welles will be joined by Claudette Colbert in "The Garden of Allah," by Robert Hichens. Monday at 9 the Lux Radio Theatre will present James Hilton's beloved story, "Goodbye Mr. Chips," with Laurence Olivier (he of "Wuthering Heights" fame) and Edna Best. The author himself will be heard during the intermission giving interesting comments on his story of British school life.

Toscanini's Broadcast...

In the fourth of his series of Beethoven broadcasts, Arturo Toscanini will present the Symphony No. 8, the Egmont Overture, and the Septet. The series will conclude on December 2 with the monumental Ninth Symphony.

Here and There...

Ethel Starke, violinist, will be heard in recital over CBM tomorrow evening at 7.30. Donald Dickson, young Metropolitan baritone replaces Nelson Eddy on the weekly coffee broadcast (Sunday at 8-FCBC). Cecil West, former director of the McGill Players Club and at present assistant director of the MRT, will be heard in an interview in the "My Job" series (CBM, Monday at 7.45). CAMPUS CLASSICS

I. THE PIT.

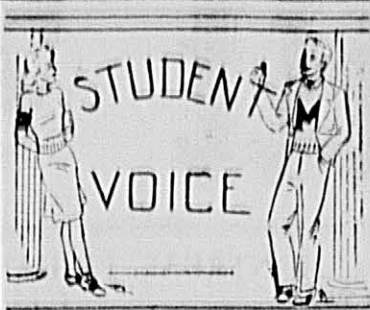

Every college has a Pit,
Though they may not call it that.
It's a place where you sit—
Generally on your hat, or someone else's books,
And to with a coke and fidget with a cigarette.
And throw casual looks
Of pity, envy, or hate
At the girl who has a date.
Of course, if you have a date yourself
You greet everyone you know,
And its surprising the number of people you know
When you're with an eligible man.
If you don't do either of the above, you can—
Well—play bridge, or poker, or talk abstrusely about the Steins—
Gertrude or Elia or Ep,
Or put a nickel in the slot and do a kind of complicated palsy while shrieking Hep Hep.
Failing any of the above lines, you can just cat—
Cold apple pie, indigestible doughnuts and even vegetables and meat.
The IMPORTANT rule to remember about the Pit is, in any case,
Whether at California or Cornell,
Whether at Minnesota or McGill,
Always to go there when you should be
Some OTHER Place.

—ANNIE MOUSE.

DUSK

Dusk, and the sky shades with the buildings gray
Whose disembodied lights like stars gleam out;
A vagrant wisp of the departing wind
Whirls the old paper and russet leaves about.
The golden autumn day fades to gray tones;
The city, neon-lit, turns garish red;
The sun expires within a sanguine glow—
Diurnally extinguished, never dead.
That lovely face that gazed toward the West
Turns back to me; and as I watch, I know
What it has seen. The day has gone;
His work was done and he content to go.

Local Editorials.

To the Editor of the McGill Daily
Sir,—Certain of our Montreal newspapers have contained editorials concerning a speech made by Professor E. R. Adair of our History department. These editorials strongly criticized Professor Adair for his remarks, which were made to the Rotary Club, and published in the "Gazette" on November 15th. And it seems to me that the function of the editorials is to comment on day-to-day happenings, pro or con. What I cannot support is the attitude that Professor Adair should not make the comments that he did, and that he should not make them at this time. To my mind, this is a most dangerous and undemocratic viewpoint. And it is not restricted to these editorials. Many persons have expressed the opinion that for the duration of the war, we must not discuss, criticize, carry on with normal procedure. But we must realize that democracy is not a thing that can be put on or off as expediency demands. Democracy must be continually practiced and extended, if it means anything to us at all. Democracy means, among other things, freedom of speech and thought. If we do not propose to keep these basic rights at home, what are we fighting for abroad?

The stand that I take is in accordance with the stand taken by the Women's Union and other campus clubs with regard to the war. Let students feel that this matter is of vital importance to our whole democratic way of life. In closing, may I quote Principal Elect F. Cyril James who stated in an interview printed in the Daily, November 2: "... If those problems are to be satisfactorily solved, and the future of the Anglo-Saxon ideal of civilization to be preserved, it is imperative that the men and women of our universities should at this time be considering their attitude toward both domestic and international problems." We can only do this if people can freely express their opinions at this time.

Yours sincerely,

BETTY KOBAYASHI.

To the Editor of the McGill Daily:
Sir—On Wednesday the Gazette and Montreal Star in their editorial columns launched a scurrilous attack on Professor Adair for his address to the Rotary Club on "Poland—Her Strength and Weakness." Whether we agree with Professor Adair's opinions or not, we certainly feel that he has every right to express them and attempt to prove them, either inside the classroom or out. There was nothing in what he said which would either prejudice recruiting or hinder us in winning this war. On the contrary, we will fight with more determination and confidence if we make sure that this time we are fighting for a peace based on justice and equality, and not on vengeance and hatred.

As for the attack on Mr. Chamberlain's policies, may we point out that Professor Adair was only exercising his democratic right and duty of criticizing government policy. If in peacetime such criticism ensures better and more efficient government, as British democratic tradition claims and proves it does, then surely in wartime this criticism is none the less necessary.

When we examine the particularly virulent and brutal attacks made by the Montreal Star, we perceive at once that nowhere are they directed against Professor Adair's arguments, but rather against his person. This is for the obvious reason that there is no one on the staff of the Star, or even in its remote vicinity, with a sufficient knowledge of history or economics to dispute even one of the arguments he brought forth. There is the familiar dragging in of the red herring of war conditions and "enemy jeers" followed by the quick and utterly unproven assumption that because the historical judgment of an eminent authority on history happens to differ from that of the Star's editor, therefore the expert is a bitter political partisan cursed with "bad taste, poor judgment, and an incapacity to grasp the significance" of matters historical.

Similarly, because this editor seems to consider Premier Chamberlain an angel in disguise who can never be mistaken, a logical criticism of this statesman, based on historical facts, draws another tirade of abuse. Taking issue with Professor Adair on "purely historical grounds" is conveniently passed over in silence and ignorance.

Next, the editor had the unbelievable effrontery to accuse a citizen of a democracy of "bad taste" and "lackluster" in criticizing a democratic Prime Minister. Shades of dictatorship! Where is the tact, the good taste of our parliamentary opposition? Let us not forget that the right and duty of this opposition to criticize has its foundation in the right and duty of every individual citizen to consider criticism.

The argument was brought forward by both the Star and the Gazette that many and perhaps the majority of the Rotarians Professor

Intermediates Set for Clash with Verdun Grads

SATURDAY'S GAME McGill Harriers Defend Provincial Dunlop Trophy

RUSSELL TO DRESS

Till Takes Place in Brown Stadium

REDS UNDEFEATED

McGill Favored in League Championship Battle

daily sports... by Winifred

McGill's Intermediates and the Verdun Grads will decide the possession of the Q.R.P.U. trophy for this year in a play-off game at Brown Stadium, Verdun, this Saturday afternoon at 2 P.M. This is the last football game in which McGill must compete this season.

The game was scheduled to come off in the Percival Molson Stadium, but arrangements have been changed. The home ground has been closed for the week and the ground is now covered with a layer of coal oil. In an attempt to make up for the ravages that more than two months of beating spikes have inflicted on the green turf.

The Redmen have come through the season without meeting defeat, while the Grads have not their score put on the wrong side of the dash once so far. Experts do not accord the Verdun team much chance of vanquishing the formidable Intermediates as they are becoming known in league circles. Homes are high that the Grads will bring home this title for Redmen have not figured too well in the other two disputes.

The Intermediates are at full strength for perhaps the first time this season. Most of the casualties have returned to action, and the Senior team is no longer regaining the services of their stars.

Having a full team with a strong line to contend with the Grads expected to take to the air in an attempt to get the title. The Redmen have not looked as outstandingly strong despite the fact that the method of attack so far is not a little chance that the Grads will come through without a scratch.

Grab Morrison will not be filling his accustomed role as star, however, for the Redmen this Saturday. His boots will be filled by Halliday, who has been doing some very commendable work. Morrison, already this season, Calvin Reed who has been bench-warming for the seniors for some games, will also figure in the game. He is still eligible for Q.R.P.U. play as he has not actively taken part in any Senior games. Calvin will be the king pin in many Intermediate offenses.

Jack Patterson will reappear on the field as quarterback. He has been generalizing the Intermediates in many of their successes this season. Bruce Russell is another mainstay of the Red team, who will see action in this week-end's encounter. The injury back-fielder has finally reached peak condition after an injury which kept him from the position for a long spell earlier in the season. Russell is a sure pass of hands, so the coach counts on him for a lot of ball-stuffing on Saturdays.

With the exception of Lloyd A. Ford, who is graduating from Medicine this year, the whole of the Intermediate group expect to be on hand next season to fill in the gaps in the Senior outfit. Whatever those awaiting graduation may do to his credit, Coach Doug Kerr will find ample material to draw on for the season of the Intermediates.

Since the Molson Stadium has been closed up for the week there will be no more practices and there is a prospect of having a very close game, Saturday morning, before the game.

The following is the program for Saturday's championship game:

Football—Brown, Brock, Russell, Ford, Patterson, Wilson, Macdonald, Halliday, Kerr, Morrison, Crumley, Clarke, Bailey, Gaud, Stone, Grandin, Barry, Palmer, Harvey, Robinson, Morrison.

Gymnastics—The Gymnastic Club is holding practices every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday at 8 o'clock in the Mount Royal High School Gym. Everybody is welcome to these work-outs.

Swimming—Will all those who are not turned in their examination papers do so at once. As per usual, the Y.M.C.A. House, located at 100 St. Catherine St. W., will be the place for the examination. The examination will be held on Saturday, November 18, at 10:00 a.m.

As cold weather is definitely here, and snow not far off, it might be advisable to start today with some talk of winter activities. It was learned from an informative source that this year there are going to be bigger and better plans for the use of the ski house than the R.V.C.s share with Montreal High school at St. Adèle. Many tentative plans have been arranged to hold meets at St. Adèle and use the house as a headquarters for such events. Early in January there will be several small meets and one big competition before the winter season is closed. It must be remembered that last year these ski outings were nearly all held at St. Adèle and with the change of plans it should make the Ski House a very popular place. Parties are particularly urged to take advantage of this opportunity of using the house which is open to them if they pay the fee to the M.W.S.A. Every good skier should now go to the Ski House to use the house.

A cornish invitation is extended to all those who are interested in fencing to turn out at either the Tuesday class at 8:30 or the Thursday class at 8:00 p.m. and show their skill in the noble art. The encouraging feature is that there are three vacancies on the R.V.C. fencing team and they have to be filled in order that the squad may take part in competition. In filling these positions no preference will be given to upper class girls, but all will depend on the coach's skill, whether she be fessette or senior.

The R.V.C. class basketball game got off to a very good start last Friday afternoon when M.S.P.E. last season's champions took the Senior 2B-4 and the Freshies overcame the Sophomores with a score of 41-35. Several promising players came forth on the Freshmen team and looked very much like future championship material. Among them were Estelle, Harp, and Eileen Johnson who proved a high scoring combination. Bruce Amory and Mary Cameron topped the M.S.P.E. laurels coming most of the scoring and gave renewed hope to the Physical Eds. of retaining the coveted Interclass Trophy which they won last year for the first time in way over a decade. The girls are scheduled to take place tomorrow at five p.m. in the R.V.C. Gymnasium are Second Year 2B, M.S.P.E. and Fourth Year 2B. The Interclass League basketball games are planned to be played on November 20th. This year the schedule for some games will be made much more varied of the competing teams will play each other more often. M.S.P.E. Girls, Macdonald and Macdonald R.V.C. and McGill are all in the Interclass League.

The good, low, benders have been proceeding in full swing. Having completed their Telegraphic Journey and their outdoor

Cooke and Reid Doubtful Starters for Redmen—North Branch 'Y' Scene of Start

Fresh from their Intercollegiate victory at Kingston last Saturday, the Red Harriers are preparing for their sixth defence of their Provincial Title. The Dunlop Trophy, emblematic of the Provincial Title, will be at stake this Saturday when harriers from all over the province, congregated at the North Branch of the Y.M.C.A. for the start of the five-mile run.

The Red team minus the services of Lloyd Cooke and Reid Hyde, will be led by the German and Glen Cowan who placed second and third respectively in the Intercollegiate event. Lloyd Cooke ran last Saturday because the fact that he had suffered an attack of appendicitis during the week previous to the race. This week, however, Cooke has been advised not to run as there is a possibility that he might endanger his future running. Nevertheless, he may run, although this is very unlikely.

For the past six years the McGill team have been successful in winning the Dunlop Trophy. In last year's race the team placed first, second, fourth, and fifth, which gave them a margin of over ten points ahead of the second place team. This year, with three of the same men who placed in last year's event, the team should be high up when the final count of the score is made.

Leading the opposition will be Jack Walburg, Walburg, former Canadian Champion of the five mile meet, they are all set for the Indoor Beginners Tourney which will take place on November 25. This is strictly for beginners and any one who is interested in becoming a coed Robin Hood should enter it. Yesterday from 2-4 p.m. a meeting of the Archery Club was held with many aspiring archers present. It is hoped that an even larger and more enthusiastic group will take part in the tourney. On Saturday afternoon, December 2, six coeds will come from Macdonald College to compete with the R.V.C. Later on in the season there will be the Annual Indoor tourney. The silver arrow, the archery award is given jointly to the winners of both the indoor and outdoor meets.

A precedent was established last night when The Recreation hall in R.V.C. was the scene of mixed Badminton Doubles. It is hoped that this will be received enthusiastically and that it may become a regular item on the Badminton agenda. Any men students who are interested in playing Badminton are urged to get in touch with Alec McLeod, or Don Proven, R.V.C. Badminton Manager. Should the interest be overwhelming it will be arranged that everyone will get a chance to play at some time or other. Next Thursday the coed Badminton enthusiasts will rally forth to their third organized meeting of the season. The time, 8 p.m., the place, the Recreation Hall in R.V.C.

Wednesday night was the first of a series of fencers' meetings for the McGill R.V.C. Fencing team. The first week consisted of two evenings, last Wednesday and last Friday. The McGill team is mostly composed of beginners and put up a good fight. The R.V.C. group gets a new next week, while the A team meets the Y.M.C.A. entry. This week the A's were slated to meet the Montreal Fencing Club, but have not yet fought. Since so many of the fencers seem to have very little time for outside training it will be necessary to change the team around quite a bit. Before everyone should get a chance to fence one week.

In spite of the fact that the poetry of certain young ladies makes fencing sound like the Women's Auxiliary, Library, and Sewing Circle, it is really rather good exercise and seems to have attracted quite a following at McGill. Miss Rhonda Ross, MacMillan, Godine, Harley, hope to form a team at R.V.C. and it is hoped that competition from Macdonald and other clubs will be forthcoming. Since only two ladies teams were entered in the City League, this year's competition will probably be held to give R.V.C. some competition in exhibition matches.

Several of the ladies have been seen in the hope that they will get some chance to fence with the men's team for additional practice. Indeed, when the matter was referred to the gentlemen and a few of them were ready to accept several have been refused to be quoted by the subject. Although these men were rather eager in their replies, they did display a certain amount of interest and may get on pretty well.

The attendance so far has been very good but we should like to see more of the Medical students who each year make up so much of the intercollegiate and City League groups. There should be at least six men trying for that intercollegiate team this year and it may be a close fight for the three coveted places. McGill is the only college which has not reported the loss of any of last year's team and will have a good chance to regain the title.

Canadian Nickel

A VITAL FACTOR IN CANADIAN MINING PRODUCTION

Today the stream of metals from the mines of the Empire must be kept flowing. Gold, Copper, Nickel, Lead, Zinc, Tin, are needed in increasing quantities. The mines of Canada and other Empire countries are stripped for action.

In maintaining and increasing this supply of metals, Canadian Nickel plays a vital part. In drills, mine cars and locomotives, in crushing, grinding and smelting equipment, alloys of Canadian Nickel give strength, toughness and resistance to abrasion. They reduce breakages, give longer life to equipment, and eliminate wasteful shut-downs.

In the new machinery and equipment needed to speed and expand mining production, Nickel Alloys will be used in ever-increasing quantities. Thus the Nickel Industry plays its vital part in speeding Empire production.

Student Voice

Adair addresses (some of whom had the "bad taste" to interrupt him) disagreed with his conclusions and that, therefore, these conclusions were wrong. In relation to this, both editors echo Mark Twain when he wrote, "I have all the fools of this town on my side. Isn't that a big enough majority in any town?"

There is a further point on which I would like to take issue with the editor of the Gazette. He intimated that a professor should not express his opinions in the classroom. This is of course nonsense. A professor can only express a personal opinion, either his or some one else's, although the better he knows his subject, the less personal his opinion becomes. Therefore, it is as foolish to presume that a student of opposite convictions should not disagree with his professor and endeavour to prove himself right on the basis of his own knowledge.

In conclusion, may I say that I should welcome nothing more than an intelligent objective criticism, by an authority on history, of Professor Adair's views. I must deplore the fact that editorial columns of two prominent Canadian newspapers no longer appeal to reason and education, but are descended to despicable rabble-rousing.

—G. HATCHER.

To the Editor of the McGill Daily.
Sir—The good taste of a speech made by Mr. E. A. Adair has been questioned in editorials both by the Montreal Daily Star and The Gazette. May I in turn question the good taste of these editorials. They stress the bigotry of Mr. Adair, but do they not themselves give evidence of a greater degree of bigotry?

Yours truly,
SONYA ELKIN.

Of Interest to Ice-men...

Now that U. of M. has left the I. L. I. H. L. several other promising hockey teams are trying to get a franchise. Western, which has confined its championships to football up to the present, would like to enter a team in the Intercollegiate loop. Little is known about the calibre of the team they could produce. McGill played the Londoners several years ago and won by something like 4-0, which wasn't very high a score for the kind of teams McGill iced in those days. Another team, Clarkson College, would also like to enter the loop.

Campaign Continues to Nov. 24. The Messrs. F. J. Jellet and J. Henry Labelle are the chairmen of the society. The campaign will continue until November 24, when the Society hopes to have reached its objective. A number of members of the Staff and friends of the University are interested in the campaign and students of all years are being canvassed. The Red Cross has expressed an earnest hope that all Canadians will respond to this urgent need.

involved. He outlined its benefits to the insured which include the services of the doctor of the patient's choice, cash allowances for absence from work through sickness. For this the insured pays the sum of 42d. (9 cents) each week, an equal amount being paid by the man's employer.

The disadvantages of the scheme were also cited by the speaker. Among these were the lack of provision for hospitalization, the fact that the dependents of the insured were not taken care of except in the case of maternity care, he said, and the large number of patients which a doctor was forced to have on his list due to the fact that, for each patient he receives only nine shillings a year, for which he may be called on to give unlimited care.

Sweden's Health Insurance. Passing on to the system of health insurance in force in Sweden, Dr. Pedley mentioned as the main difference in the two schemes, the fact that in Sweden, insurance is not compulsory and only 15 per cent. of the population take advantage of it. The chief advantage of the Swedish over the English system is the fact that a wider coverage is made, hospitalization often being for a period up to two years, it was stated.

In Sweden the doctor works on a fee for service basis and not on the capitation system in use in England. The Swedish patient is forced to pay one-third of the doctor's bill, the remainder being taken care of by the insurance. In this way the patient is discouraged from putting in an appearance at the doctor's office on the slightest provocation.

Concluding by giving his own opinions about the likelihood of the introduction of a state health-insurance scheme to Canada, Dr. Pedley stated that he felt that it was inevitable but probably would not come about for some time yet. Since the war there has been a great change in the attitude of employers towards systems of subsidization for the employee, and the vested interests are gradually giving way to a liberalism which, in time, will benefit the working man in the low income brackets, he said.

The speaker was thanked by Donald Lloyd-Smith and the meeting divided into two discussion groups for further study of the health-insurance question.

ANNUAL PICTURES

The following members of the ROYAL VICTORIA COLLEGE, have not yet put in an appearance at Rice's photographers for their Annual pictures. If your name is here will you please get down to the photographers within a day or two. The Christmas rush will be starting soon and it will be more difficult to get pictures taken. Dead for all pictures, December 1.

FREEDOM OF SPEECH?

minorities left much to be desired; and the fact that her weakness greatly out-balanced her strength ought to be obvious from the success of Hitler's "lightning" war. The "stupidity" of Chamberlain may not be so obvious; but the wisdom of his foreign policy, and that of Baldwin before him, is certainly a legitimate question for discussion and one concerning which many different views are held. Loyalty ought not to be blind; our leaders are not, or until war broke out were not, Fuchers. They appear to tend that way, however. We are ostensibly fighting a war for the preservation of freedom; if, in order to be successful in that effort, it has become necessary to suspend the ordinary democratic rights of free speech, free press, and academic freedom, then, logically, the war is not a just one, and should be stopped at once. Satan cannot cast out Satan; if we adopt the tactics of our enemies, we give them the real victory.

"The Star" and "The Gazette" should be reminded that loyalty is not incompatible with criticism, for it is by criticism that our institutions exist. The policy of both these papers lately seems to be aimed toward a deliberate fanning of the flames of war-hysteria—and what good purpose it serves is difficult to see.

Professor Adair might have told the Rotarians that history abundantly shows that, when freedom is once lost, it is very difficult and sometimes impossible to regain it. If we have any war aim, it ought to be, as in 1914-18, to "make the world safe for democracy." It is hard to see how such an aim can be achieved unless democracy is safeguarded here and now, on the principle that "charity begins at home."

in America and Europe. Besides his extensive medical work Dr. Shepard was interested in Art and was President for a time of the Art Association in Montreal.

Biography of Mitchell. Johnson and Chesney gave in conjunction a biographical sketch of "Silas Weir Mitchell," who was born in Philadelphia, and received his medical degree from Jefferson Medical College. After entering a Military Hospital at the outbreak of the Civil War, Dr. Mitchell became interested in Neurology. While keeping on with his private practice Dr. Mitchell, the first specialist in Neurology, contributed much to the knowledge of that branch of medicine, both with experimental work and through the publication of a book on Peripheral Nerves. In his latter years Dr. Mitchell took up the writing of novels, his "Hugh Wynne" being a best seller.

ATTENTION SAN CARLO TICKET HOLDERS

Due to an unfortunate misunderstanding there has been an error in the distribution of student tickets for tonight's performance of "Faust" by the San Carlo Opera Company at the Forum. The tickets, which are still available at the Tuck Shop, are to be exchanged for seat tickets at the Forum tonight.

Payment is to be made at the box office; the special student rate of 75 cents which entitles the student to a box seat or any other seat in the house, will be granted anyone possessing the green slip obtainable at the Tuck Shop.
